PRESIDENT’S LETTER

When you get this newsletter the spring quarter will be beginning and with it, the end of my penultimate year as president of the emeriti association. I love the job, but I am dealing with the disappointing reality that we (or I if you wish) have not been able to attract new blood into leadership roles.

The excellent work of the association is being sustained primarily by individuals whose membership is the result of their status as spouses or senior staff on whom membership has been conferred. Any credit for what we do is theirs, not the diminishing number of Academic Senate faculty who continue to do yeoman work.

We need others to step up and take a leadership role in order that the character of the association retains its current and evolving form. We are an organization dealing with changing demographics, changing home geography, changing social roles, retirement at older ages, and many more attractions for our spare time.

There are things to celebrate. Our dinner and after-lunch programs have been an enormous success. We have joined forces with the UCLA Retirees Association, adopted their signup system and have co-sponsored the after-lunch speakers. Attendance is usually greater than 40 and the question periods are enthusiastic.

This is emblematic of our closer association with the Retirees’ Association, with a large part of our missions shared, our electronic and computer programs identical and many more needs and goals in common. I meet with the President of the Retirees’ Association, Rod Rose on a regular basis and Sue Barnes and the ERRC staff have been solidly behind us.

After something of a lull, we are finding greater participation from the campus community in nominating candidates for the Panunzio, Dickson and the newer Goldberg Service Awards. These awards are given to Emeriti on campus who have distinguished themselves in their efforts subsequent to formal retirement from active service.

For the first time in at least a decade, we have had to have a campus emeriti committee select the single allowed nominee from the three submitted for the University-wide Constantine Panunzio Award. There are 10 nominees for the campus-wide Dickson Awards and three for the Goldberg.

The selection committee for the awards will be headed by the interim vice-chancellor for academic affairs, Mike Levine.

I will close with my best wishes for an enjoyable and productive summer. We still tend to be regulated by the academic calendar and as we saw from the last emeriti survey, for many, their best days are still ahead.

Thank you all for what you do for UCLA and for the Association. We still need those souls who are willing to give a little more and volunteer for a leadership role.

SPRING DINNER FEATURES AWARDS, EUGENE VOLOKH

Eugene Volokh is the Gary T. Schwartz Professor of Law at the UCLA School of Law. He publishes the blog “The Volokh Conspiracy” and is an academic affiliate of the Mayer Brown law firm.

The 2016 presidential election has renewed our interest in the tug of war between the different branches of the federal government and Professor Volokh, as a renowned constitutional scholar and blogger, is an ideal speaker to help us think more clearly about system of checks and balances as it plays out in the contemporary political scene.

Volokh was a leap-year baby born in the Ukraine when it was part of the Soviet Union. He immigrated with his family to the United States at the age of seven. Volokh exhibited extraordinary mathematical abilities from an early age, attending university level mathematics and calculus courses at the age of nine.

At the age of 15, he received a B.S. degree in math and computer science from UCLA while earning a handsome salary as a programmer for 20th Century Fox and having his achievements featured in an episode of the TV series OMNI: The New Frontier.

After receiving his JD degree from the UCLA School of Law, he was a law clerk for Judge Alex Kozinski of the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals and later for Supreme Court Justice Sandra Day O’Connor.
Volokh’s article about “The Commonplace Second Amendment” was cited by Supreme Court Justice Antonin Scalia’s majority opinion in the landmark Second Amendment case of District of Columbia v. Heller.

On “The Volokh Conspiracy,” he addresses a wide variety of issues, with a focus on politics and law. His non-academic work has been published in The Wall Street Journal, Los Angeles Times, The New York Times, Slate, and other publications. Since May 2005 he has been a contributing blogger at The Huffington Post.

Awards will be presented at 5:15 p.m. These include Dickson Emeritus Professorships, Goldberg Awards, and the Panunzio Distinguished Emeriti Award.

The evening will also include the Emeriti Association’s annual business meeting: Presentation of the Association’s awards, voting on a proposed change to the constitution, and election of officers.

The Spring Awards Dinner will be held Wednesday, May 10, 2017, in the California Room of the Faculty Center. The reception begins at 4:45 p.m. to allow ample time for presentation of awards. Dinner begins at 6:00 p.m. The Emeriti Association business meeting will take place after dinner and before the program at 7:00 p.m.

AUDIT REPORT

Our Treasurer Ms. Jane Permaul has provided all the documentation of the 2015-2016 financial activities of our UCLA Emeriti Association in a detailed report that included all the related correspondence supporting the various transactions.

All the documentation is in perfect order and Ms. Permaul is to be commended for her efficient handling of the financial activities of the Association.

FACULTY CENTER MATCHING FUND

As many of you are aware, the Emeriti Association is one of the three founding groups of the UCLA Faculty Center.

As you also know, the Faculty Center is in need of repair and cannot generate funds from operating expenses to finance the needed capital improvements and redecoration of the interior.

The EA board recently continued our tradition as a strong Faculty Center supporter by authorizing a one-for-one matching fund. All emeriti donations to the Center between March 1 and June 30, 2017, will be matched. The matching fund is capped at $12,000.

Those who qualify for Emeriti Association membership, whether or not they are current members, are eligible to participate. This includes surviving spouses, librarians, those who have had emeritus status conferred, and honorary members (those who have reached the age of 85).

The matching fund was motivated by an appreciation of the role the Faculty Center plays in hosting many Emeriti Association activities as well as in the individual lives of emeriti.

The Faculty Center has two UCLA Foundation tax-deductible funds:

*The UCLA Faculty Center Fund provides important operational support to the Faculty Center; it is used to discharge financial obligations to the University for essential services provided to the Faculty Center.

*The Faculty Center Modernization Fund makes possible repairs and renovations both minor and major in kitchens, rooms, patios, and gardens.

Donations to either fund can be made by going to this link: https://giving.ucla.edu/Standard/NetDonate.aspx?SiteNum=461.

Or from the Faculty Center website (http://facultycenter.ucla.edu/), find the Donate link at the top of the page and follow instructions.

There is a comments section where you can note that your donation is eligible for the Emeriti Association match.

If you prefer to donate by check, please take or send your check, made payable to the UCLA Foundation, to the Faculty Center, 480 Charles Young Drive East, Los Angeles, CA 90095. In the memo section, please write Faculty Center Fund or Faculty Center Modernization Fund.

IN MEMORIAM

In Memoriam will appear again in the fall issue. In the meantime, a complete list of passings will be available at the spring dinner on May 10, 2017 and posted later to the Emeriti Association website.
TOAST OUR ARTISTS
JOIN THE FUN

The 39th Sylvia Weinstein UCLA Emeriti Arts and Crafts Exhibit is just around the corner. Save Tuesday May 16th, 2017, 11:00 a.m.-4:00 p.m. and plan to visit the show in the California Room of the Faculty Center.

Your friends and family are welcome as well, and the invitation is extended to them, so make this an artistic venture that is fun for all.

We have new artists and most of your favorites are returning. Everything from sculpture and photography, paintings and drawings, and jewelry and crafts. Did I say jewelry and crafts? True, it’s after Valentine’s day, but there is always a birthday or anniversary around the corner so come prepared to not only look and enjoy but also to shop.

Featured artist Jim Turner says, “I’ve always messed around with one thing or another: drawing, painting, carving, assemblage, collage, etc.” See what Jim and the 25 other artists have selected for this year.

Oh, and eat and drink and listen to fine music while you wander. We will have sparkling wine for the toast to the artists, and a patio filled with hot and cold goodies for all. The introductions and reception start at 2:00 p.m. and will fill you with the urge to see more art and chat more with the artists and your friends.

And then there are your friends and colleagues from all parts of the campus to catch up with. What better time to exchange handshakes and hugs after enjoying the music and making a toast.

Your printed invitation should have arrived. Please fill out the return card so we can know if you are coming or not, but more importantly, so we can make sure that we order enough goodies for all. We would not want to run out of the “eats and drinks.”

If you pass the invitation on to others (which we encourage you to do), or lose it (happens to the best of us), the mailing address for contributions is: UCLA Emeriti/Retirees Relations Center, 1116 Rolfe Hall, Box 951437, Los Angeles, CA 90095-1437.

We are looking forward to joining with you to enjoy the art, the artists, and your friends.

PANUNZIO, DICKSON, GOLDBERG AWARDS

At the time this newsletter went to press, the winners of the Panunzio Distinguished Emeriti awards given University-wide, the Dickson Emeritus Professorships given on each campus, and the Carole Goldberg Emeriti Service Award given only at UCLA were to be decided.

All emeriti and guests are encouraged to attend the awards ceremony which will occur prior to the Spring Emeriti Association dinner on Wednesday, May 10, 2017, in the UCLA Faculty Center, California Room.

Cocktail hour begins at 4:45 p.m. and the presentations will begin about 5:15 p.m. Guests are welcome for the reception even if they will not be attending the dinner or after-dinner program.

Publicity will be seen in campus news sources after the winners have been selected. Winners will also be highlighted in the fall edition of this newsletter.

The Panunzio awards are given to individuals in the humanities and social sciences for outstanding achievement in their academic pursuits since retirement. The Dickson awards have the same criteria but are open to scholars in any field. The Goldberg awards are given at UCLA to individuals whose major contributions after retirement have been in service and teaching.

UPCOMING PROGRAM

A Thursday After-lunch Program at the UCLA Faculty Center has been scheduled for June 8 beginning at 1:00 p.m. with refreshments, followed at 1:30 by the presentation, and 2:30 by Q&A, finishing by 3:00 p.m.

This will be a joint program with the UCLA Retirees’ Association. Details are still being arranged.

In order to be sure that you receive notification of these programs in time to register for them, please make certain that the ERRC has your best e-mail address. Please e-mail emeriti@errc.ucla.edu or call (310) 825-7456.

Those who do not have e-mail or choose not to share it with the ERRC will need to find a buddy who can keep you up to date.
CELEBRATING 50 YEARS

The UCLA Emeriti Association was formed in 1967 as a representative and advocate of emeriti interests to the University and campus administration. It was one of the first organizations of its kind in the country.

When retired University Librarian Bob Vosper was president in 1984-1985, librarians became eligible for membership without conferral.

In the years since its founding, the Emeriti Association has grown in size and services provided, especially in close partnership with the Emeriti/Retirees Relations Center.

At a luncheon celebrating our 45th anniversary, a large crowd was regaled with an historic overview of the association and we were privileged to celebrate with some nonagenarians who were a long-term part of this history.

In recognition of our golden milestone, the Emeriti Association will celebrate our 50 years in the fall.

We invite all members to give us your memories of EA events and ways in which the Association has been instrumental. We will share these in the coming months.

We also welcome your suggestions for appropriate ways to celebrate.

Please share your ideas with the 50th Anniversary Committee via the ERRC (emeriti@errc.ucla.edu or 310-825-7456).

If you have been honored with an award, drafted into a new initiative, published or edited a new book, or have other news you would like to share with other emeriti, please inform the editor via emeriti@errc.ucla.edu.

EMERITI ACTIVITY SURVEY REVISITED

Last spring, Professor Emeritus Chuck Berst’s assertion that “Emeriti have contributed more to the University of California than the state [has]” led to an article about the report of the most recent survey—A Virtual Eleventh Campus: An Inventory of University of California Emeriti Activity During 2012-2015 which can be found at http://cucea.ucsd.edu/documents/AVirtualEleventhCampus.pdf

Closer to home, Sue Barnes shared a PDF infographic with data from UCLA respondents. Some findings:

A significant percentage of UCLA emeriti continue to teach, both at UCLA and at other institutions, and serve the campus. Thirty-six percent reported teaching undergraduate or graduate courses; 28% reported serving as formal mentors; 49% reported serving as informal mentors; and 42% reported serving at the campus or departmental level. Scholarly activities reported by 202 respondents included 42% who published books or book chapters and 62% who published one or more journal articles.

A total of 61% of UCLA respondents reported having works in progress, including monographs, research projects, brain imaging studies, journal articles, creative literary publications, textbooks, and online articles.

And faculty have made significant financial contributions to UCLA. During the three-year period from July 1, 2012, to June 20, 2015, emeriti generated a total of $63.2 million in research grant funding. During that same period, emeriti personally donated $29.3 million in gifts and pledges to the university.

The UCLA Emeriti Association will continue to advocate for emeriti rights and privileges and having such impressive survey data helps to make the case for UC’s continued support of emeriti activities and initiatives.

Increasing UCLA participation by emeriti in the next survey (in 2018) is an important goal.
PLAYREADING AND LISTENING

Playreading is a bit off the beaten path. There are no sets, no stage lighting, no curtain, and at least for now, not even a stage, and it’s free.

The group generally meets in a setting rather like a living room, the library/billiard room at the Faculty Center. The actors read their lines, script in hand. Yet the effect can be as powerful and intense as a fully staged theatrical production. When the magic is working, your imagination does a brilliant job, and you’re fully engaged in the comedy or the drama.

The UCLA Faculty Women’s Club started the Playreaders group in 2009. Early on, the UCLA Emeriti Association board agreed to co-sponsor the activity, and now the Retirees’ Association has also signed on.

The Faculty Center provides support by publicizing our playreading evenings and making the library available. Anyone in the UCLA community can join, and guests are always welcome.

The group meets in the Faculty Center dining room for dinner at 5:30 before the performance, and audience members are welcome to participate. After each performance, there’s a chance to discuss the play with the director and cast.

Next up, on Thursday May 11 at 7 PM, we’ll read The Real Thing, play by Tom Stoppard, the Czech-born British playwright who’s a wizard with English. The play focuses on the relationship between Henry and Annie, an actress and member of a group fighting to free Brodie, a Scottish soldier imprisoned for burning a memorial wreath during a protest.

You may be inspired to act in or direct a playreading. No need to memorize lines. You practice at home. There’s one rehearsal, a week before the performance.

In June, the play selection committee will meet to consider play suggestions for 2017-2018, and we’re planning a summer theater outing, probably in July. To be on the mailing list, or learn more, please contact Chair Rochelle Caballero, rrcab90272@cs.com.

ARLINE ZUCKERMAN

Arline attended EA board meetings only once or twice. The reason was to appeal for help with the archives. For many years, Arline had helped Ralph Johnson with the archives. After Ralph’s death, Arline soldiered on solo. President Steve Cederbaum referred to Arline as an “Unsung Hero.”

Many remember Arline’s quiet, self-effacing presence. When the Emeriti Association tried to honor her with our Distinguished Service Award last spring, Arline characteristically, perhaps, declined. Since Arline can no longer object, we will present the award in absentia.

Arline’s wide-ranging interests included dance, classic cars, UCLA basketball, volunteering with the Los Angeles Public Library literacy program, science fiction, and more.

The Celebration of Life for Arline will be held at the UCLA Faculty Center, Friday, April 28, 2017, 2:00 p.m.

SPRING BALLOTTING

Voting will take place at our May 10 dinner.

Officers: The following slate has been approved by the nominating committee: President, Stephen Cederbaum; President-elect, vacant; Recording Secretary, Barbara Lippe; Treasurer, Jane Permaul; Members-at-Large, Edwin Cooper and Jack McDonald. Except for Edwin Cooper, these are the current incumbents in their offices and have served the association well.

Nominations will also be accepted from the floor.

Constitution and By-Laws: In all instances where Bio-bibliographic Survey is mentioned, the name shall be changed to Emeriti Survey. This change aligns local practice with the statewide Council of University Emeriti Associations which administers the survey.

BETTY CHANG

One in a series of tributes to UCLA Emeriti Association members by EA newsletter Assistant Editor John Edmond. Betty’s story is one that documents her many challenges, her energy, and outstanding productivity as a faculty member, plus her positive impact on the lives of many people in many countries around the world.

Betty Chang joined the UCLA School of Nursing (SON) faculty in 1977 after completing her Ph.D. at the University of California, San Francisco. Her thesis topic focused on Aging and Nursing Care of the Elderly.

In order to become more congruent with the UCLA SON’s increased focus on Advanced Nurse Practitioner Care for the elderly, Betty earned a certification and medication-writing privileges as an Advanced Nurse Practitioner.

During her time at UCLA, Betty filled in for various positions as needed by the School: These included Acting Dean, and Associate Dean of Academic Programs and of Students.

Her research interests remained in the areas of Nursing Informatics and Gerontology. Studies included the quality of elder care, burdens of caregivers for older adults with Alzheimer’s disease and other chronic illnesses.

She integrated the development of various information technology programs (personal digital devices, web-based programs, and videos) to promote health care. Betty indicated that one of her earliest projects/publications was her favorite and involved the development of a system in Artificial Intelligence/Expert Consulting for nursing diagnosis, intervention and research.

CANDI (Computer Assisted Nursing Diagnosis and Intervention) served nurses in the assessment of self-care in the elderly to provide suggested nursing diagnosis, nursing interventions, and follow up. The program was disseminated to rural health centers, and later released to a publishing company.

Throughout her career at UCLA, she was invited as a researcher, consultant, or speaker in a number of countries in Europe, Asia, and North and South America.

Betty has to her credit a number of “firsts.” She instituted the first computer laboratory for students and faculty in the UCLA SON. She was a consultant in establishing, and later served as visiting professor in, the first Master’s Program in Nursing Informatics in the U.S. at the University of Maryland, Baltimore. She was the first UCLA SON faculty member to be awarded a nursing research grant through the NIH National Institute of Nursing Research.

Betty was selected to be a member of the inaugural permanent study-section panel (which previously only had ad-hoc groups) of the National Institute of Nursing (NINR) at NIH.

Betty was the inaugural editor of a column on Nursing Informatics for the Western Journal of Nursing Research.

She was recognized for nursing research and leadership by several organizations and elected a Fellow of the American Academy of Nursing and Fellow of the American College of Medical Informatics.

Little Known Facts about Betty.

Betty came to the USA through a special Act of Congress allowing her to immigrate by name. This occurred because her father, former professor of Soil Chemistry, had been sent to study for his Ph.D. at UC, Berkeley, by the then Nationalist Chinese government (having been the highest scoring person in his field).

Betty’s mother, trained as an MD in China, accompanied him to Berkeley, but decided to visit her parents in China when she was pregnant with Betty. Thus, Betty was born in China and prevented from entering the U.S by the then severely limited quota restrictions for Chinese immigrants. When her mother and older US-born brother were ready to return to the U.S., she was therefore left with her grandparents.

It was not until six years later that they were able to obtain a visa for Betty through the passage of the congressional bill.

Betty’s most formative years were spent in the small community of State College, New Mexico (near Las Cruces) where no other Chinese families were known to Betty’s family.

Some of her fondest memories were spent on the New Mexico State University campus where her father was a professor of Agronomy. Family outings were field trips where her father invariably made stops to collect soil samples with an auger to take back to his laboratory.

Betty is profoundly versatile in that she has many talents. For example she told me she “loves ballroom dancing” – waltz, Latin dances (salsa, rumba, samba, cha-cha, merengue, basic tango), and swing/jitterbug. She and her current dance partner like the jitterbug the best. Betty’s late husband (a former UCLA faculty member) was of German descent. They danced at the German-American club and elsewhere for 30 years.

Another fun mission for Betty is feeding the homeless on Sundays. Her volunteer group makes 100 to 140 bag lunches and takes them to the park for distribution.

Other hobbies include reading--particularly biographies of famous women such as Eleanor Roosevelt and Jackie Kennedy, and writings by Nobel Prize winners such as Elizabeth Blackburn’s research articles.

Retiree Parking Permits

UCLA Parking Services will begin the renewal process for retiree parking permits in mid-April by mailing renewal letters to permit holders. Checks and credit cards are accepted as payment. Checks may be mailed in; credit card payments must be made in person. Ridecard holders will receive new cards via mail as well. For questions, contact Parking Services at (310) 206-3877.

Notary Services

The ERRC should be able to offer complimentary notary services for retirees within the next two months. Eric Wang has passed the notary test and is waiting for the process to be finalized.

Upcoming Programs

The ERRC has planned a variety of programs for this quarter:

Living Trusts/Estate Planning

Thursday, April 20, 10 a.m.

University Credit Union, 1500 S. Sepulveda Blvd.

The majority of Americans have no plan in place to preserve, manage and transfer their wealth upon death or incapacity. In California, if you die owning more than $150,000 in assets, whether you have a will or not, your estate could be subject to the costs and delays of probate. To register, call (310) 825-7456 by April 14.

At this educational workshop you will learn how to:

- Learn the best ways to transfer property
- Empower the right person to make decisions in a medical emergency
- Avoid probate and federal estate taxes
- Distribute your estate according to your wishes

News and Notes

Kudos, new undertakings, recent publications, awards, and other reports from the far reaches of the world of UCLA emeriti.

Dr. Forrest H. Adams, professor emeritus of pediatrics, received the University of Minnesota Outstanding Achievement Award in February, 2017. The citation reads, “Pioneering cardiologist, who performed the first heart catheterization on a newborn; discovered the role of lung surfactant in respiratory distress syndrome; and made a lasting impact through his research on infant and fetal physiology. Revered leader, who served as founding director of UCLA’s Division of Pediatric Cardiology and was a driving force in growing the field. Outstanding champion of science, who has spread his deep knowledge widely in the world and co-wrote Heart Disease in Infants, Children, and Adolescents, still the gold standard in pediatric cardiology textbooks.”

Elaine R. Barkin, professor emerita of music, has had a 2 CD set of her music (1955-2013) produced by Open Space Music. The set includes a mix of solo instrumental, chamber, gamelan, tape, and midi pieces. Also available and ready for download is Berlin: a Memoir of a Year Abroad, 09/56-09/57 about her Fulbright year in West Berlin studying composition at the Musik Hochschule and other adventures, with photos and artwork. Go to <the-open-space-org> for both publications; click on New and go from there.

Professor Emeritus of English Fred Burwick will serve as the academic resource person for a UCLA Alumni Holiday Markets cruise from Nuremberg to Cologne in December, 2017. Professor Burwick has accompanied more than 10 UCLA alumni tours through Europe. During his career, he served as a visiting professor at several German universities including Würzburg, Siegen, Bamberg, and Göttingen and spent two years as the director of the UC Education Abroad Program.

After shepherding the UCLA Herb Alpert School of Music into existence, Judith Smith was named the school’s founding dean in February. She agreed to postpone her retirement to serve as dean until June 30, 2019. While Judi gave up her role as chair of the UCLA Emeriti Association program committee in order to become executive director of the emerging school of music and then interim dean, she has continued to organize musical programs featuring students and faculty for the EA.

Betty’s travel plans for this fall includes a visit to Maine for three months to help her younger daughter with a new baby expected in July.

I asked Betty what she planned to do about five years from now: Her response was “I hope to have my garage and as much of the house as I can ‘cleared out’; it’s about the seasons, there is a time to keep and a time to cast away!”

To conclude, Betty said “I thank God for all the wonderful people that have provided amazing support/mentorship throughout various aspects of my life and career.”
